Three Leaders Of World Jewry Speak Out On Future Of American Jewry And Zionism

Three of the highest ranking leaders of World Zionism voiced in sharpest terms their position and that of the movement on the future of the American Jewish community, the vital problems facing world Jewry and U. S. policy in the Middle East and Israel in the light of the current international situation. The speakers were: Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Zionist Organization; Dr. Emanuel Neumann, honorary president of the Zionist Organization of America and member of the Jewish Agency Executive; and Dr. Max Nussbaum, president of the ZOA, who presided.

They spoke before more than 1,000 Zionist and Jewish communal leaders from the metropolitan and adjacent areas at the $100-a-plate dinner of the Zionist Organization of America (ZOA) at the Hotel Americana, in New York. The dinner, which commemorated the 15th anniversary of the passage of the U.N. resolution for the establishment of the State of Israel, was tendered in honor of Jacob Goodman, veteran Zionist and associate treasurer of the Z.O.A., and marked the presentation of the annual ZOA Herzl Gold Medallion to Louis Lipsky, dean of Zionist leaders.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, in his address of tribute to Mr. Goodman and Mr. Lipsky, asserted that the American Jewish community suffers from "a harmful decentralization as a result of the absence of any central body or platform from which the great problems of American Jewish life are being discussed and clarified." He also charged that there is a lack of understanding in the community for the great historical [illegible] in the 20th century, with the reduction of the central problem of Jewish life concerning the relations between the Diaspora (lands outside of Israel) and Israel to the lowest common denominator of financial help in various forms."

Dr. Goldmann said that "the Zionist movement in this country must try to lead in the fight for a representative central organization of American Jewry which is today the most disorganized Jewish community in the world."

Dr. Emanuel Neumann, honorary president of the Z.O.A., and a member of the Jewish Agency Executive, asserted that, "Israel continues to live in the shadow of menacing threats to its security and very existence, in that it is subject to constant and unremitting pressures both militarily and politically." "It must be noted that political and diplomatic offensives against Israel can be as dangerous potentially as the hostile military build-up on her borders.

"The current international crisis over Cuba and the Indo-China conflict have temporarily obscured the Middle East problems which remain unresolved. So far as our own government is concerned, I hope it will crystallize its position in the forthcoming debate on 'the Palestine Question' with the utmost caution and vigilance. Our government will, I trust, guard against being maneuvered into support of any proposed solution of any problem involved in the Arab-Israel dispute that may harbor the seeds of Israel's ultimate destruction or disintegration."

Dr. Max Nussbaum, president of the Z.O.A., who presided, called attention to the failure of the U.S. government to initiate in the Senate steps for the ratification of the U.N. Genocide Convention, which was adopted by the U.N. General Assembly in 1948, the year of the proclamation of Jewish Statehood, and received its stimulus from the massacre of six million Jews at the hands of Hitler.

Dr. Nussbaum said it is incomprehensible that for more than a decade the State Department has procrastinated in taking action toward American ratification of the Genocide Convention, despite the fact that 65 nations, including Soviet Russia, have already ratified this international instrument. (It was reported in Washington that the State Department's request for advice and consent.)

"In the light of the treatment accorded Jewish religion and culture in Soviet Russia, it is significant to point out that during the 1948 debate on the Genocide Convention in the U.N. General Assembly, the Soviet Union submitted an amendment to extend the definition of genocide to include 'cultural genocide', encompassing within this term deliberate destruction of language, religion, or cul-

Bnai Brith Asks Germany For New Restitution Law

Bnai Brith appealed to Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany for his personal attention in correcting inequities in West Germany's indemnification program. In a letter, Label A. Katz, of New Orleans, president of the Jewish service organization, also asked the Chancellor's intervention to expedite a restitution payment of five million deutsche marks ($1,250,000) due to Bnai Brith. He said Bnai Brith had appealed directly to the Chancellor "because we recognize with appreciation the personal concern Dr. Adenauer has always shown for the victims of Nazi persecution."

In May, 1959, Bnai Brith reached an agreement with the West German government to receive DM 5 million as restitution for assets owned by its German affiliates and confiscated by the Nazi regime in 1939. Mr. Katz said that one-half of the settlement was paid at the time the agreement was signed and the remainder was scheduled by March 31 of this year. He expressed Bnai Brith's regret that additional payments have not yet been made.

In urging revisions in the indemnification law, Mr. Katz and major Jewish organizations have pointed out to West German officials that technicalities in the existing law have denied thousands of survivors of the Nazi holocaust the right to claim compensation to which they are morally entitled. Among these, he said, is a 1953 deadline which required that all claimants reside outside Iron Curtain countries by that date. Mr. Katz called the cut-off date arbitrary, saying it has meant the exclusion of Nazi victims, among them Hungarians, who were unable to emigrate from Hungary until after World War II and after that date.

In his letter to Dr. Adenauer, Mr. Katz lauded West Germany's indemnification policy which has done so much to help alleviate the plight of survivors of Nazi persecution. In inaugurating the program, Mr. Katz said, the West German government acted with a high sense of moral obligation. But failure to correct the shortcomings in the present indemnification law can only detract from the significant achievements of the Federal Republic in this field.

WJC Says Only Social Changes Can Give Jews In Latin America Security

A tribute to South American Jewish communities for their "high courage and statesmanship" in the face of a recent upsurge of anti-Semitism, was paid by a World Jewish Congress leader, Dr. Maurice L. Perlzweig, on his return to New York from a visit to South American and Caribbean Jewish communities. Dr. Perlzweig is head of the International Affairs Department of the World Jewish Congress and its permanent representative at the United Nations.

Dr. Perlzweig attended the recent Congress of Latin American Jewish Communities which was held in Sao Paulo, Brazil, under the auspices of the World Jewish Congress and the World Zionist Organization.

"I was deeply impressed by the Congress," Dr. Perlzweig declared. "There were outstanding leaders from ten countries, and it was clear from the reports of those coming from countries which had passed through the ordeal of a resurgence of neo-Nazism, that [illegible] reacted in the face of [illegible] position [illegible]

Perlzweig stated that the [illegible] of Jewish [illegible] in Latin America [illegible] from the danger [illegible] upheaval arising out of a [illegible] disorder. [illegible] it was the conviction of [illegible] society, with its economic [illegible] accompanying [illegible] which [illegible] that date.

Dr. Perlzweig emphasized that democratic forms and traditions were still influential, and their importance must not be underrated. But, unless and until those who exercised real power were prepared to make the necessary far-reaching social and fiscal changes, democracy would be in jeopardy. He also strongly warned against the tendency to treat South America as though it were a single social and political unit.

"There are vast differences among these countries in their cultural traditions, the ethnic composition of their populations and their social structures," Dr. Perlzweig said. "In Brazil, for example, the Catholic hierarchy has taken a strong and public stand against incitement to racial and religious hatred. If their brethren in certain other countries had done the same it would undoubtedly have been a contribution of the first importance in the fight against racialism. In Brazil, incidentally, anti-Semitic incidents had been few and far between, and no more serious than in the United States and other democratic countries."

In fact, as a result of the cooperation of Jewish and non-Jewish civic bodies, the Government had found ways of preventing the circulation of a Portuguese translation of "Mein Kampf," though a Spanish version, printed in Mexico, was circulating freely through the rest of the continent.

"The Jews of South America," the WJC leader declared, "showed at the Sao Paulo Congress that they are not fighters for the status quo. They realize their democratic values will only be maintained if there is social progress seeking the welfare of all the inhabitants of their lands, and they reaffirm their commitment to democratic ideals and set their faces against totalitarianism in any form.

"One of their most important decisions was to make an approach to the Organization of American States with the urgent request that a regional system for the protection of human rights, together with a human rights court, should be developed as has been done by the Council of Europe. The task of representing these views at the Organization of American States was confided to the World Jewish Congress, and we shall undertake to discharge this obligation without delay," concluded the Congress leader.

Dr. Perlzweig had warm words of commendation for the Jewish community in Brazil, which had continued to develop the effectiveness and organization of its Jewish activity. Every Jewish community in Brazil was represented at the Congress, and its national delegation was headed by a world-renowned scientist, Professor Fritz Feigl, by a Federal Senator, who

Founder Of Famous Food [illegible] Came To U. S. As Orphan Of 12; Was Noted For Charity

Max Rosoff, founder of and a partner in Rosoff's Restaurant and the Rosoff Hotel, both at 147 West Forty-third street, near Times Square, New York, died of a stroke in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Patricia R. Newman, 234 Client Road, Great Neck, Long Island, N.Y. His age was 82.

Mr. Rosoff lived at 935 Van Beuren Street, Hollywood, Florida. He had retired from active management of the restaurant in 1950, says the New York Times. He was born in Russia and came to the United States as an orphan at the age of 12. As soon as he had saved enough money, he brought his five younger brothers to the United States and established them in the restaurant, or in allied businesses. They predeceased him.

Mr. Rosoff began his career as a druggist's helper. Then he became a salami slicer in an East Side delicatessen, sleeping on a cot in the store to save money. He opened his own delicatessen and restaurant on Graham Avenue, Brooklyn, at the age of 19. About 1905 he moved his establishment to Manhattan, on Sixth Avenue opposite the old Hippodrome. He moved to the present [illegible] the former Metropole [illegible], in 1913.

In 1937 Mr. Rosoff gave testimony [illegible] Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey in smash [illegible] racketeers, among them the late Dutch Schultz, to get a foothold in the restaurant business.

Mr. Rosoff was noted for his [illegible] During the Depression he [illegible] kitchen and [illegible] city's [illegible] unemployed men and stranded boys to his restaurant after 10 P.M. to eat the food that was left over, says the New York Times. He gave Christmas dinners for child patients in city hospitals and to professional Santa Clauses. In World War II he contributed to the United Service Organization the money he saved because of the rationing of butter.

Mr. Rosoff was host to many theatrical celebrities, newspaper men, including the Drama Desk, and members of the Yankee baseball team. Among his patrons were Rex Harrison, Ed Sullivan, Walter Hampden, Don Ameche, Tom Poston, Herb Polesie, Lili Palmer, Rosalind Russell, Lee Tracy, Sir Lawrence Olivier, and Vivian Leigh.

He was a trim, neat little man and a fanatic on cleanliness. He held a citation for his restaurant from the Board of Health.

In 1949, on his fiftieth anniversary as a restaurateur, Mr. Rosoff said he had realized the dream he had had as a young immigrant boy — "that people from all walks of life might sit at my table and break bread with me."

He was a founder of the Restaurant League and a [illegible] of the Masonic Order; the [illegible]; and the Grand Street [illegible] says the New York Times. He was a contributor to [illegible] University and the [illegible] of Jewish Charities.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Sadie Shafler; two daughters by a former marriage, Mrs. Patricia R. Newman and Mrs. R. Colwin, of [illegible] York; wife, the former [illegible] died in 1948.

Social Notes — Montreal

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Waxman, 2830 Ekers Avenue, gave a cocktail party with fifty-five guests at their home, on the occasion of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Geraldine Waxman, to Ben. Rappaport, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. Rappaport. Mrs. Waxman wore turquoise-blue, with corsage of white carnations. Miss Geraldine Waxman was in a green and white silk printed sheath; made with a Chinese neckline; and had a corsage of white orchids. The table was trimmed with a centerpiece of bronze-coloured and yellow carnations and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Carl Storfer, 2745 Bedford Road, was a luncheon hostess to twenty-five guests, in honour of Miss Geraldine Waxman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Waxman, 2830 Ekers Avenue, and the fiancee of her brother, Ben. Rappaport, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. Rappaport. Miss Geraldine Waxman wore a brown knitted dress; and had a corsage of pink roses. The table arrangement was of white and pink carnations. The marriage will take place on December 2, at Young Israel Synagogue.

Mrs. Bernard Wolk, 1450 Webb Street, gave a kitchen shower with twenty-five guests at her home in honour of Miss Ann Bookman, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Bookman, 4200 Bonshette Avenue, and the late Harry Bookman, fiancee of Henry Better, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Better, 7820 de L'Epee Avenue. Mrs. Wolk was in a black wool sheath dress; Mrs. Bookman, a grey knitted suit; and Mrs. Better was in a brown silk dress. Miss Ruth Bookman wore a red knitted suit. A centerpiece of pink and white roses trimmed the table. Mrs. Ruth Bookman, mother of the bride-to-be, poured the beverages.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Lehrer, 5470 Trans Island Avenue, entertained one hundred guests at dinner, at Ruby Foo's, to celebrate the engagement of their daughter, Miss Shirley Lehrer, to Charles Lyon Buzner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buzner, 6525 Cote St. Luc Road. Mrs. Lehrer was in a powder-blue brocaded sheath. Mrs. Buzner wore a black brocaded sheath, both having corsages of white carnations. Miss Shirley Lehrer wore a printed blue brocaded sheath; her corsage was of white orchids. A centerpiece of pink and white carnations adorned the table. The marriage will take place in June, at Young Israel Synagogue.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Pollack, 4965 Fulton Street, entertained fifty guests at a cocktail party, to celebrate the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sharon Levine, to Victor Kaufman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kaufman, 2520 Noel Street. Miss Levine is the daughter of the late Louis Levine. Mrs. Pollack was in a black taffeta dress, with black lace insertions; and had a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Kaufman was in a two-piece beige beaded ensemble; and her corsage was of pink Tea roses. Miss Sharon Levine wore an off-white brocaded dress, made with a full skirt; and she had a corsage of pink Tea roses. White chrysanthemums, and pink carnations and roses, were combined, to decorate the table. The marriage will take place on March 17, at Beth Ora Synagogue. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Levin, of Ottawa, Ont., uncle and aunt of the bride-to-be, were here for the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter S. Wise, 5900 Macdonald Avenue, celebrated the bar-mitzvah of their son, Ronald Barry, who was called to the Reading of the Law, at Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue. He is the brother of Richard Martin Wise; and of Jack Stephen Wise; grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Wise; and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bezner. Kiddush was observed. Afterwards a luncheon with one hundred and fifty guests was held in the Synagogue hall. Mrs. Wise wore an aquamarine-blue brocaded dress; made with a bell-shaped skirt, and its own jacket; and a velvet pill-box hat of matching colour. Seated at the head table with the family were: Dr. Solomon Frank, Rabbi, and Reverend G. Schacter, Ronald Barry's teacher. The bar-mitzvah boy spoke and Dr. Solomon Frank, Rabbi, asked the blessing over the challah. A white, blue, and yellow bar-mitzvah cake and centerpieces of yellow and bronze-coloured carnations and chrysanthemums trimmed the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robins, 3855 Linton Avenue, celebrated the bar-mitzvah of their son, Harvey Joel, who was called to the Reading of the Law, at Chevra T'hilim Synagogue. He is the brother of Reevan, aged seventeen years; grandson of A. Nadler, 5611 Hutchison Street, and the late Mrs. Esther Nadler; and of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Robins, of Montreal. Following the services Mr. and Mrs. Robins were hosts to one hundred and ten guests, at a luncheon in the Synagogue hall. Mrs. Robins wore a dress of pale green lace, over matching peau de sole; and a green velvet hat. Seated at the head table with the family were: Rabbi Morris Werner, Cantor W. Frischman, and Mr. and Mrs. Moe Nadler and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Caplan, uncles and aunts. The bar-mitzvah boy spoke; and Rabbi Morris Werner asked the blessing over the challah. A blue and white bar-mitzvah cake, and arrangements of red roses and white pom-poms, decorated the table.

SERVICES IN THE SERVICE

By [illegible]

Into the chapel marched the air cadet, wearing regulation full dress uniform — and over it a tallit. He sat down in the first row, just in front of the pulpit. In that pulpit stood, for the first time, Lt. Marvin L. Labinger, newly appointed Jewish chaplain of the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado. It was Friday night, and Lt. Labinger was presiding at his first Sabbath evening service there.

Before beginning the service, he spoke mildly to the cadet:

"It isn't necessary to wear a tallit (prayer shawl) at Friday evening services."

The cadet sat silent for a moment. Then, jumping briskly to his feet, he stood to attention: "Sir, I request permission to wear my tallit. It was given to me at my Bar Mitzvah and it's the only religious article I brought to the Academy."

Every Friday evening since, the cadet has religiously worn his tallit. The cadet's zeal mirrored the spirit with which the Jewish cadets have welcomed the opportunity to live a Jewish life under the guidance of a chaplain.

A native New Yorker who was ordained at The Jewish Theological Seminary of America in 1959, Lt. Labinger was transferred to the Academy in the fall of 1961 from his post as chaplain at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. The nation's military academies had never had a Jewish chaplain before, although President Lincoln appointed the first Jewish chaplain in the American armed forces 100 years ago.

The chaplain's presence has enabled the forty Jewish cadets and twenty-two families at the Academy to become an organized Jewish community. A new cadet is religiously "anonymous," the Air Force having no knowledge of his religious preference. Once at the Academy, he meets with the chaplain of his choice. Three of the cadets told Lt. Labinger they had chosen the Academy because a Jewish chaplain was stationed there.

Most of the Jewish cadets were active in synagogues back home. Howard J. Cohen, for example, is a graduate of Temple Beth El's Hebrew school in Asbury Park, N.J., and a past president of the United Synagogue Youth chapter. He helps with cantoral duties and has volunteered to teach at the Sunday school being opened this fall for the Academy's Jewish families. Two other teachers are Mrs. Phyllis Nedelman, wife of the Academy hospital's radiologist, Capt. Stanley Nedelman, and Major Philip L. Cooper, physiology instructor who serves occasionally as cantor.

Like most chaplains, Lt. Labinger must be prepared to field unusual requests. One cadet wanted him to "brief me quickly on some answers," as his roommate was a Baptist and "he keeps asking me what Jews believe about the Messiah, salvation, heaven, and hell."

Another cadet confessed he was having difficulty following the services, which he thought "too Orthodox." But his friend thought them "too Reform":

"Why don't you have more Hebrew in your services? I miss all the group readings and singing we had in our congregation back home."

A problem that had a special appeal for Lt. Labinger was posed by a cadet planning to be married after graduation.

MARRIAGES

LANDE-SCOTT

The marriage of Miss Jane Elizabeth Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Scott, 8960 Cote des Neiges Road, to Eric Paul Lande, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Lande, 4333 Westmount Boulevard, took place at Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue on November 13, at twelve noon. Rabbi Wilfred Shuchat officiated, assisted by Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white duchesse satin gown; cut with a fitted bodice, and scooped neckline; and three-quarter-length sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt terminated in a long train. Her heirloom lace veil, belonged to the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Abe Bronfman. She carried a white prayer book covered with orchids and stephanotis. Mrs. Arthur Stampleman, as matron of honour for her sister; and Mrs. Neil Lande, sister-in-law of the groom; Misses Ruth Lande and Margot Lande, sisters of the groom; Jane Wartels, cousin of the bride; and Lynda Kaufman as bridesmaids, were dressed alike in frocks of white ottoman silk. They wore pill-box hats of apricot-coloured tulle, and carried crescent bouquets of apricot-coloured pompoms and baby ivy. Neil B. Lande acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were: Arthur Stampleman, brother-in-law of the bride; Richard Brunswick and Edward Greenblatt, cousins of the groom; Harold Bregman, Howard Levine, and Edward Victor. Standards of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons, arranged with ivy and greenery, were used to decorate the Synagogue. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Ritz Carlton Hotel, where candles in candelabra; and arrangements of white roses, stephanotis, and ivy were used to decorate. Mrs. Scott, the bride's mother, was in a gown of mocha-toned and gold-coloured brocade. She had a hat of the same shades. Mrs. Lande, mother of the groom, was in toast coloured silk, trimmed with sable; and a matching velvet hat. They had sprays of cymbidium orchids pinned to their purses. Mr. and Mrs. Eric Paul Lande spent their wedding trip in Jamaica, the West Indies, the bride travelling in a frock of white wool, under a coat of black and white checked wool; and having a black velvet hat; and a corsage of gardenias.

"But my girl is religious," he said, "and her folks keep warning her she won't be able to live an observant Jewish life if she makes an Air Force career with me. You're making a career here. Couldn't you write her folks about it?"

Early in Lt. Labinger's career at the Academy, he and Mrs. Labinger accepted a dinner invitation at the home of Brigadier General William T. Seawell, Commandant of Cadets. The general's chef then telephoned the chaplain. He was going into Denver for supplies and wanted to know where he could buy kosher meat. The general had insisted that his Jewish guests should not be discommoded at his home and was prepared to make the entire dinner completely kosher, to the extent of getting new dishes.

Subsequently, one of the general's aides telephoned Lt. Labinger: "We're having a few Jewish cadets for supper. I want to have everything kosher, so please tell me how it's done."

The chaplain's program includes regular Sabbath and holiday services, Hebrew and Bible classes, an annual religious retreat, and two socials a year at synagogues in nearby communities. Plans for the future include more study sessions and seminars. Lt. Labinger has organized a Jewish cadet chorus which served as choir at the High Holy Day Services this year. The choirmaster is Lt. Gerald Richman, an English instructor.

The chaplain reports that the local Jewish community has helped "magnificently." He says: "They have become part of our Academy family. They have come here every week to honor us with an oneg shabbat. With genuine Jewish hospitality, they have opened their homes to all the cadets."

The community is proud of "its" cadets, and with cause. When the dean's list was published several months ago, the names of fifteen of the thirty-two Jewish cadets then at the Academy appeared on it. One was elected group commander of the Cadet Wing — Michael Roth, of El Paso, Texas.

Civilian and military families alike have invited the Jewish cadets for the Passover Seder and other holiday meals. A tradition is springing up that the post-Yom Kippur supper is sponsored by the local Jewish Welfare Board and by the Jewish Chaplain Fund. This fund is supported solely by voluntary contributions.

The cadets are proud of the Academy's new chapel. With seventeen spires soaring 150 feet aloft, it is the Academy's tallest structure and commands the surrounding area. No reason has been given for the seventeen spires, but Lt. Labinger has suggested that from a Jewish point of view, at least, the number carries a special significance and is a happy choice. The Hebrew word tov, meaning "good," has the numerical value of seventeen.

The architect, Walter A. Netsch, rejected the concept of a single chapel serving all and any faiths and the chapel houses separate Protestant, Catholic and Jewish places of worship. While the exterior has been completed, interior areas await final details, but the 100-seat circular synagogue is ready. It is surrounded by a floor of Jerusalem stone presented by the Israeli Air Force. Pending formal dedication, services are held in temporary chapels.

Although a circular synagogue is rare, the circle is a familiar symbol in Jewish lore. Life itself has been thought of as being circular, birth and death meeting in a closed cycle of infinity.

The Ark and its appointments were designed by Ludwig Wolpert of the Jewish Museum of The Jewish Theological Seminary. To cope with the uprights circling the wall, he devised a circular frame to embrace the Two Tablets of the Law on the Ark. Each of the abbreviated forms of the Ten Commandments on the Tablets is backed by a circular window of stained glass. The recurring circular motif pursues and harmonizes with the general shape of the synagogue.

For the Eternal Light, intended to suggest a guiding beacon like the North Star, Mr. Wolpert used three intersecting Shields of David. There are no light switches for the Eternal Light in the synagogue, a thoughtful touch provided by the Academy so that the lamp should not accidentally be extinguished.

Of his design, Mr. Wolpert says: "Torah and faith, like the circle, are infinite, eternal. The design parallels the custom of resuming the reading of the Torah a moment after the final verses are chanted, a custom suggesting that Torah and its study are endless, without beginning and without end. And because the Torah is the word of God revealed, the design connotes the timelessness of God."

Maritimes Section

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Everett, and children, Jacqueline, and Mark, of Halifax, N. S., spent some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Everett, of Saint John, N. B.

At the marriage of Miss Jean Diane Ehrlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ehrlich, of St. Paul, Minn., to Dr. Yale Conrad Kanter, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Kanter, of Saint John, N. B., at Temple of Aaron, in St. Paul, Minn., the reunion of the groom's father, Samuel Kanter, with an elder brother, Morris Kanter, of North Hollywood, Calif., formerly of St. Paul, took place after fifty-seven years. Also present was their sister, Mrs. David Weinstein (Sadie), of St. Paul, who met her brother, Samuel Kanter, born after she had left her home in Poland for the United States, for the first time at a wedding four years ago in Canada. Morris Kanter immigrated from Nieseiz, Poland, in 1905, at the age of eighteen years. Samuel Kanter was then three years old. Morris Kanter, who settled in St. Paul, married the former Miss Lena Fremland. In 1947, they moved to North Hollywood, where they live at 5550 Carthwright Street. When Samuel Kanter reached adulthood, he left Poland for St. John, N.B. In addition to Dr. Yale Conrad Kanter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kanter, who married thirty-five years ago, are the parents of Dr. B. H. Kanter, of Middleton, Conn.; and two daughters: Mrs. B. Cons, of Montreal; and Mrs. A. P. Taylor, of Toronto, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kanter have a son, Sol Kanter, of St. Paul, and three daughters: Mrs. Edward Smith (Minnie); Mrs. Milton Gordon (Bernice); both of North Hollywood, Calif; and Mrs. Kenneth Kripke, of Denver, Colorado. A son, Mervin Kanter, was killed in an accident while on duty with the Air Force five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. David Weinstein, 2275 Highland Parkway, are the parents of Yale Weinstein, of Albuquerque, N. M.; and Mrs. Samuel Upin (Bernice), of Faribault, Minn.; and Mrs. Nathan Rhodes (Dorothy), of Chicago, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Jacobson, Bloomingdale Terrace, Halifax, N. S., returned from a trip to New York, Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va.

Halifax, N. S.: The Zionist Council re-appointed Joseph Zatzman, and Max Forman as chairmen for the 1962 Israel Bond Drive which inaugurates the initial year of the "Decade Of The Negev." Sixty per cent of the land in Israel lying in the desert of Negev will be reclaimed for cities and farms. The slogan is: "Make The Negev Green", by the sale of Israel bonds which will ensure funds for immigrants who will settle there. Other members of the Israel Bond committee are: Peter Herschorn, honourary chairman; Dr. Anna Hammerling, chairman of the Women's Division; Jack Newman, treasurer; Dr. Irving Perlin, and Dr. Saul Green, professional division. The committee at large includes: Dr. S. Chernin, Dr. R. Epstein, A. I. Garson, Richard Glube, Earl Goldberg, Samuel Goldfarb, Morris Goldberg, Noah Heinish, Dr. J. Hammerling, H. I. Jacobson, J. H. Jacobson, S. S. Jacobson, R. A. Kanigsberg, Q.C.; Morris Kohler, Dr. I. K. Lubetsky, Ralph Medjuck, Jack Mints, Herman Newman, Saul Offman, Dr. C. Oler, Max Pascal, Elkanah Rafuse, Jack Rafuse, I. G. Rockman, Nat Rubin, Bernie Sheffman, Robert Smiltestone, Samuel Solomon, Arnold Webber, Eddie Whitzman, Frank Zebberman.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Katz (nee Elaine Levine, formerly of Moncton, N.B.), 1940 Ekers Avenue, Montreal, Quebec, on October 27, at the Jewish General Hospital, there, a son, Stewart Geoffrey; brother of Mark Charles, aged two years; grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Katz, of Montreal; and of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Levine, of Moncton, N.B.; great-grandson of Mrs. Annie Selick, of Moncton. Godparents are Nathan Levine, grandfather; and Mrs. Jonas Katz, grandmother. Irving Clubotaru, of Montreal, held the baby during the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Budovitch, of Fredericton, N. B., will be in Montreal, Quebec, for the marriage of Miss Bertha Rosenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Rosenberg, 3385 Barclay Avenue, to Frank Morris, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Morris, all of Montreal, on December 9, at Beth Hamedrash Hagadol Synagogue.

CLASS IN COOKERY

OATMEAL DATE SQUARES

one cup oil — two cups rolled oats one teaspoon vanilla — one cup flour
one cup brown sugar

Mix brown sugar with oil until dissolved and smooth. Add vanilla. Mix well with rolled oats, and add flour. Spread one-half of mixture on bottom of an ungreased square pan, cover with jam, chopped nuts, and dates, and sprinkle with coconut if desired. Pat down remaining half of oatmeal mixture and bake at 350 degrees for thirty or thirty-five minutes, or until it is brown. Mark off into squares while still warm and remove when cool.

Mrs. H. Marcovitch,
4310 Dupuis Avenue, Montreal.

HERRING PUDDING

four salted herring — four potatoes two eggs — chopped green onion or one-quarter teaspoon pepper — chives
four tablespoons sour cream

Soak filleted herring overnight in cold water. Rinse well. Chop herring fine. Have ready boiled potatoes. Mash them and add all ingredients together, beating until smooth. Put into buttered casserole and bake at 425 degrees for twenty-five minutes, or until lightly brown.

MARRIAGES

GOLDSTEIN-BLACK

The marriage of Miss Brenda Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Black, 8 Cherry Gardens, Belleville, Ont., to Paul Stanley Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goldstein, 485 Simcoe Street North, Oshawa, Ont., took place at Beth Tzedec Synagogue, in Toronto, on Wednesday, August 22, at half-past five o'clock. Rabbi M. Celniker, of Toronto, and Rabbi Martin Nordan, of New York, officiating at the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was in a full-length gown of white silk peau de soie, with white and silver flowers used to outline the low-cut neckline, and fitted bodice. The bell-shaped skirt had a scooped hemline, and was embroidered to match. The high-necked, fitted jacket had full-length sleeves; and buttoned at the centre back, with the neckline embroidery like that of the gown. A detachable cathedral train, had embroidery on the sides and hemline in spray-effect. A coronet of matching silk, with a scooped rim, embellished with white and silver embroidery to match the gown, held the a full-length double veil of pure silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis, three white orchids, and a hybrid orchid with silver foliage. Miss Beverley Yanover, of Belleville, Ont., was maid of honour. The bridesmaids were: Miss Stephanie Goldstein, of Oshawa, Ont., and Barbara Edelist, of Toronto. They were dressed alike in full-length gowns of aquamarine-blue silk. The bell-shaped skirts had back pleating at the fitted waistline; and at the back, turquoise-blue, and aquamarine-blue shaded silk roses, and matching silk leaves, were arranged from the waistline to the hemline. Crescents of petals formed their headdresses. They carried bouquets of pink and coral-toned roses, carnations and caruelliae, with silver foliage. Philip Horwich acted as best man. The ushers were: James Topping, of Oshawa; Leonard Stass and Stanley Naftolin, both of London, Ont.; and Stanley Safe, of Montreal, Quebec. Six gathering baskets of white and coral-coloured dahlias and gladioli, with two amilax trees, silver bows, foliage and coral-tinted birds, formed the wedding decorations. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Synagogue hall. Mrs. Black, mother of the bride, was in a full-length gown of sheer silk, in pale grey with embroidered silver-coloured motifs, in a fine, all-over design. The high neckline had a soft flared half cape in the back, from the shoulder to waistline; and the long skirt gave a train effect. She had a matching hat. Mrs. Goldstein, mother of the groom, wore a Swiss brocaded gown; made with a fitted bodice; and short sleeves. The dipped waistline and sheath skirt, with a panel from waistline to the floor, was of turquoise-blue peau de soie. Her hat was of matching colour. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stanley Goldstein spent their wedding trip in the Catskill Mountains, N. Y., the bride travelling in a gold-coloured knitted dress with matching bolero, under a three-quarter-length coat; and had a hybrid orchid corsage. They have taken up residence in London, Ont., where the bridegroom will resume his studies at Western University. The bride is on staff at C. C. Carruthers Public School.

Brights FINE CANADIAN Wines

SINCE 1874

At your sabbath table, a decanter of wine is as much at home as a challah.

No wine is more welcome in Jewish homes in Canada than Mazel Too, a wine made from Concord grapes grown on the sunny slopes of the Niagara Peninsula.

Mazel Too is ruby red in colour, and richly sweet—but not cloying—to the taste. It's a wine you'll "remember", the kind of wine that you used to taste many years ago.

Mazel Too, made 'Kosher l'Pesach' under strict rabbinical supervision, is available throughout the year for every 'simcha'.

The Eichmann Trial And The Questions It Raised

BY M. BRILLIANT, OF ISRAEL

Ten Israeli detectives are busily gathering evidence from former Nazi victims about their wartime persecutors.

Requests from Bonn and Vienna for help in collecting data for the prosecution of war criminals have become so numerous since the sensational capture of Adolf Eichmann that the Israel Police had to establish a special department to cope with them. Testimony taken from survivors and gleaned from documents compiled in archives of the holocaust has helped authorities in West Germany and Austria trace and convict numerous Nazi Jew-baiters who had hitherto escaped justice.

Thus, the first case in the Jewish history of persecution in which a tormenter of Jews has been convicted by a Jewish court has served its main purpose.

Premier David Ben Gurion has said that he was not interested in vengeance against Adolf Eichmann, the No. 1 Nazi Jew-baiter, but with making an impact on the Christian world as well as upon the rising generation of Israelis with the full story of Nazi wartime cruelties. This has been accomplished.

The wave of arrests in West Germany and Austria is one of the desired results. Four times as many Nazis were arrested in the year after Eichmann's capture than in the previous year. The Bonn government has for the first time offered rewards for information leading to the capture of war criminals. Latin American governments, which had previously balked at extraditing Nazi fugitives, have begun actively to hunt them down. Nine war criminals in hideaways in Germany, Austria, and Canada are known to have committed suicide after Eichmann's capture. There were probably others.

The world had not wanted to hear the full story of Nazi brutalities but the Eichmann trial thrust it upon them. More than five million words were transmitted to 50 countries from the press-room in Beth Ha'am, the Jerusalem civic center which was adapted into a court-house. Radio broadcasts from the court building aggregated some 300 hours. Nearly 1,000 miles of video tape were flown to 68 countries. Some 10,000 court-room photographs were sold for publication throughout the world.

Inside Israel, the trial has achieved its purpose of giving young people raised since the holocaust a clearer understanding of their heritage. The generation of Israelis which stood up against seemingly hopeless odds some 14 years ago, and beat back an invasion by well-equipped Arab armies to forge a Jewish State in Palestine, had felt more shame and humiliation than sympathy for the millions of Jews who marched to their destruction with sheeplike acquiescence. "Why didn't they fight back?" young Israelis used to ask in puzzlement. "But now", a high school girl said in an interview, "I can't criticise them anymore."

The procession of witnesses pouring out an endless stream of the most sickening testimony ever heard in any court conveyed to young Israelis the monstrosity of the Nazi deeds and the futility of resistance by half-starved prisoners against the mighty army that had subdued the powerful armies of Europe. The murder of innocent hostages whenever anybody tried to resist or escape was only one of the ruthless methods used by the Nazis to discourage resistance.

The story that unfolded from the witness box brought home to the public how Jews were brought to a state of mind where death became desirable and a welcome escape. It became comprehensible that they should obediently remove and fold their clothes before moving to the brink of pits to be shot, and allow themselves to be pushed into gas chambers like travellers entering a subway during rush hour. So young Israelis no longer ask why the doomed had not fought back and they have developed a reverence for the few who did go down fighting or broke their way out of the murder camps and ghettoes.

The trial also dramatised the link between the scourged generation and the free Israelis. It was no coincidence that the last witness called by Attorney-General Gideon Hausner was a Palestinian officer of the Jewish Brigade Group in the British Army which liberated some of the Jewish survivors.

Eichmann's German counsel, Dr. Robert Servatius, tried to challenge Israel's right to try anybody for crimes committed in Europe against Jews who were not citizens of Israel. This evoked a memorable statement in the judgment by Justice Moshe Landau and Judges Benjamin Halevy and Yitzhak Raveb, "The State cannot be cut off from its roots which lie deep also in the catastrophe of European Jewry," observed the judges who were themselves fugitives from Hitlerism. "Half the citizens of Israel immigrated from Europe. There is hardly one who has not lost his parents, brothers, sisters, and many lost spouses and offspring in the Nazi hell."

Then, alluding to the present-day swastika-smearers and other anti-Semites, the judges added in ringing tones: "Let it be clearly proclaimed: whosoever does the acts of Eichmann will not be cleared of guilt and will be punished with utmost severity."

The historic judgment against the 20th century Haman has not answered the broad historical and moral questions that were raised in the trial. "How could this happen in the light of day? Why was it just the German people from whom the evil sprang? Could the Nazis have carried out their evil designs without help from other peoples amongst whom Jews dwelt? Could the catastrophe have been averted, at least in part, if the Allies had displayed greater will to assist the persecuted Jews? Did the Jewish people in the lands of freedom do all they could to rally to the rescue and sound the alarm for help? What are the psychological and social causes of group hatred known as anti-Semitism? Can this disease be cured? How? What is the lesson which Jews and others must learn from all this?"

These questions were raised in the judgment but the job of finding the answers was left to historians and research workers. Hence the trial and conviction of Adolf Eichmann has closed only a chapter and not the book.

BNAI BRITH ASKS FOR NEW RESTITUTION LAW

The Bonn settlement with Bnai Brith came under a program which provided a fund of DM 1.5 billion for payment of approved restitution claims. Bnai Brith officials says they have been advised that the fund has been exhausted although most settlements, such as their own, have not been paid in full. The organization is asking that a new restitution law, now under consideration by the West German government, should incorporate provisions for full payment on agreements made with philanthropic groups, such as Bnai Brith.

Mr. Katz said that Bnai Brith allocated most of the part-payment it received for the construction or maintenance of facilities that are helping to reestablish Jewish community life for surviving former German members and their families who now live in Israel, Europe, and Latin America. The DM 10 million settlement was to compensate Bnai Brith for assets seized by the Nazis after the Bnai Brith movement in Germany, which played a major role in the pre-Hitler Jewish community life of that country, was dissolved as inimical to the Nazi state.

The assets included libraries, furnishings, art objects, and similar valuables, together with securities and bank deposits, then owned by the 105 Bnai Brith lodges that were active throughout Germany. The movement has been re-established in West Germany during the past two years, with a lodge each in West Berlin and Frankfurt.

THREE LEADERS OF WORLD JEWRY SPEAK OUT ON FUTURE OF AMERICAN JEWRY

ture of any national, religious, or racial group," Dr. Nussbaum said.

He added that the Soviet Russian amendment was not adopted at that time since it was felt that the preservation of these rights belong within the sphere of human rights." The Genocide Convention branded "genocide a crime under international law, and for the commission of which the principals and accomplices . . . are punishable."

Dr. Nussbaum further asserted that "reliable reports indicate that the unwillingness of the State Department to throw it full weight and support behind the ratification of the Convention in the U. S. Senate is due to apprehension lest the Soviet bloc exploit this at the United Nations in connection with the anti-Negro violence in various Southern States."

W.J.C. SAYS ONLY SOCIAL CHANGES CAN GIVE JEWS IN L. A. SECURITY

had just been elected by a vote more than double that of the entire Jewish population in the country, and by an army General active in Jewish community affairs. Facts like these, Dr. Perlzweig commented, must be taken into consideration before democracy in South America is lightheartedly written off.

"Though there was among the delegates appreciation of the fact that a fraternal interest in their affairs had been shown in other communities," continued Dr. Perlzweig, "there was a strong undercurrent of resentment against Jewish organizations which, without authority or mandate, had taken action or made public statements which were unconsidered and sometimes damaging.

"The habit of some American Jewish organizations to conduct diplomacy at the top of their voices was particularly deplored. The Jewish communities of South America consist of free citizens who, whatever their difficulties in certain areas, have maintained their representative organisations intact and have the will and the opportunity to speak for themselves. The tendency of certain organisations and self-appointed spokesmen to treat them as helpless Jewries living in closed totalitarian regimes, has given rise to an understandable bitterness."

In view of the increasing importance of Latin American affairs, Dr. Perlzweig disclosed that a distinguished international lawyer, who is a South American Jewish leader, would shortly join the staff of his department in New York.

Referring to the position of the small Jewish communities in the Caribbean area, Dr. Perlzweig said that while they had fortunately no political problems, they were faced with the difficult task of maintaining their educational systems in the absence of recruits for the Jewish teaching profession. In some cases Israel had been very helpful by making available teachers for limited periods. This was one of the problems which it was hoped that the projected International Bureau of Jewish Education might regard as coming within its province. Referring to an interview he had with the Prime Minister of Trinidad, Dr. Perlzweig said he was reinforced in the view that the newly independent members of the British Commonwealth in the Caribbean, with their multi-racial societies, had an important contribution to make to the development by the United Nations of instruments for the eradication of prejudice and the safeguarding of human rights.

A.J.C. Hails N.Y. School Board Policy On Minority Groups In Textbooks

The American Jewish Congress hailed as "long overdue" an announcement by the New York City Board of Education that it would not accept books on social studies and other instructural materials that did not deal adequately with minority groups. Will Maslow, AJCongress executive director, laid particular emphasis on the failure of most social studies texts to cover the Hitler period adequately:

"Textbook treatment of Jewish life should make certain to include the Hitler era and the terrible lessons this ultimate expression of anti-Semitism holds for all humanity. Studies by the American Jewish Congress and other groups have demonstrated how poorly this significant period in history has been covered until now. We applaud the action of School Superintendent John Theobald in issuing his new policy statement and we await eagerly the early implementation of this program."

The AJCongress spokesman also urged that the new criteria to be employed by the Board of Education in evaluating school texts include both the history of the nation's various racial, religious, and ethnic groups, and the hardships they have had to overcome in winning full equality.

"This would cover, for example, full and objective treatment of the long, slow struggle of our Negro and Puerto Rican fellow-citizens toward acceptance, and ample discussion of the legal, social, and economic barriers to equality that have deprived them of a fair chance to lead more useful and productive lives and to participate fully in the democratic process," he said.
